Your USP

This guide is going to help you create your Unique Sell proposition. Your USP is going to be used everywhere. Memorize your UPS and have everyone in your company memorize it. Your USP defines you in the market place.

A unique selling proposition will follow a simple structure made up of the following categories. The key is to test your USP and find the structure that you like and will produce the best results.

Here's the structure of most USPs

- Problem
- Solution
- Benefit
- Guarantee
- Call To Action
- Question

Here are a few examples with a breakdown of how a unique selling propositions is structured.

Let's get started.

GKIC Community [problem, solution, benefit]

"Entrepreneurship is hard, don't go at it alone. [problem] We created a community of like minded Entrepreneurs and business owners [solution] that are focused on improving their business, income, and their lives." [benefit]

Regenerative Medicine [problem, solution, benefit]

"We restore tissues and organs to help people live a healthy and pain free life."

The USP Worksheet

Simplicity is Key. Try to not to use “Industry Jargon” when answering these questions.

The success of your marketing campaign will depend on the story you are about to create. Your audience doesn't care if you offer the best, the most, the biggest etc. They want the end result.

If this is too complicated, you’re thinking too hard. Keep it Simple.

Step 1: [problem, question]

What is your Customers Problem? What’s a question they are looking to answer?

Step 2: [solution]

What did you create to solve their problem?

Step 3: [benefit]

If they use your product or service how will their lives improve?

Step 4: [guarantee]

What is your guarantee?

Step 5: [call to action]

What would you like them to do after they read your USP? Click, call, fill out a form, etc

3 Other questions you can ask yourself.

1. What is unique about my product or service? (El Famous Burrito...”Burritos as big as your head”)
2. What is unique about the delivery of my product or service? (Think about Sedation Dentistry vs. Normal)
3. What is my story? (Tom’s Shoes “Each pair of shoes you purchase = a pair of shoes for a child in need”)

Putting It All Together

Use the examples and your answers to create your USP. I suggest you create 3 drafts and think about them for a couple of days. Pick the finalist and go with it.

Draft 3

The Conclusion

Your unique selling proposition is all about your Why! People do not buy what you do they buy why you do it.

You can't be known for everything. You have to make a stand for something. You have to choose what your business will stand for and what you'll be known for.

By making a stand and choosing something that makes your business unique, you'll become known for that unique quality and stand out from the crowd.
